ing the spring Poultney Bigelow's timely book on "Colonization and Its Problems."

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish shortly a volume of essays, notes and tales by Mark Rutherford (William H. White), entitled
"Pages from a Journal."

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. announce by Edgar Sanderson, with portraits; also,

"The Virgin Saints and Martyrs," by S. Baring Gould.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have in press "The Story of the Papacy," by the Rev. William Barry; also, in the American Men of Energy Series, "The Life of General Israel Putnam," by William Farrand Livingston.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY will publish shortly S. R. Crockett's new story "The Silver Skull," the scene of which is laid in the "heel of the Italian boot," during the stirring times of Ciro, the priest, and of Vardarelli, "Robin Hoods of the South, heroes of the people."

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING Co., Akron, O., have just published an Ohio story, entitled
"Ralph Marlowe," by Dr. James Ball Naylor ("S. Q. Lapius,") well known to Western newspaper readers as a writer of acceptable verse and fiction. The scene of Dr. Naylor's story is laid in the hill country of southeastern Ohio, and the characters are drawn from life.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. have in press a new novel by J. Storer Clouston, author of "The Lunatic at Large," which is to be entitled "The Duke," and will recount the escapades of an adventurous Irishman; also, a new novel entitled "Anne Mainwaring," by Lady Ridley, who may be recalled, as Mrs.
Edward Ridley, who wrote about five years ago a clever tale entitled "The Story of Aline," which is now out of print.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish next month a work on "The Spanish People—their origin, growth, and influence," by Martin S. Hume, who points out that the Spanish peninsula was the battleground upon which the great conflict which created the formative influences of modern civilization was fought. The evolution of Spain into a world power and its later decline are illustrated by a fearless description of the underlying forces of Spanish life. The work will form the initial volume of The Great Peoples Series, edited by Dr.
York Powell.

JAMES POTT & Co. will publish next month
a New England story by Annie Trumbull Slosson, the author of "Fishin' Jimmy." The new book is entitled "White Christopher," the hero of which was born, lived and died in Franconia, a valley among the northern hills where the great snow cross on Mt. Lafayette shines out white and resplendent in the spring and autumn. The story tells of the way in which that wonderful sign exerted its influence on a clouded mind, and, incidentally, how that influence, through the boy, touched the hearts of all the people, young and old.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish immediately a work on "Practical Electro-Chemistry," by Bertram Blount, who gives an account of those electro-chemical processes which have been already, or are likely to be, turned into industrial use; "Japanese Plays and Playfellows," by Osman Edwards, with twelve colored plates by Japanese artists; an interesting book on the position of the negro in the United States, entitled "The American Negro, what he was, what he is, and what he may become," by William Hannibal Thomas, himself a negro, who served with distinction in the Civil War, afterwards was a member of South Carolina legislature during the Reconstruction period, and is now a lawyer of Everett, Mass.; also, a new novel by Robert Herrick, author of "The Web of Life," to be entitled "Jock O'Dreams."

The author is a successful business man who has quietly and carefully studied palmistry as he might study economics or theology. By studying thousands of hands and tracing careers of their owners he has finally formulated as a science the exact laws of nature as written on human hands. He deprecates using the art of palmistry as a pastime, but thinks it should be studied carefully to teach people to know themselves and choose vocations in accordance with their natural gifts.

The basis of this volume is eight lectures given before the Lowell Institute in Boston in 1894. The author went among the Western tribes of Indians with the second Colorado expedition with John Wesley Powell, founder of the Bureau of American Ethnology. He treats the Indians as a by-gone race. The author desires to rouse students to collect material that is now obtainable, but which will shortly be gone forever and to arouse a deeper public interest in the gathering of this material. His dissertations on the material already collected form an important feature of his book.

The poetry is subordinated to the action and the author's aim is at that total impression on which Matthew Arnold so strenuously insisted. The clash of Herod's two motives—his passion for Mariamne and his murderous hatred of her beloved brother resounds fatefully in the very beginning. He struck the youth down to save his throne. The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JANUARY 19, 1901.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, should reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE POSTAL DIFFICULTIES OF PUBLISHERS.

THE postal facilities of the modern world are so vital a factor of its working machinery, and on the whole so reliable a feature, that a large part of every day business is based on the condition that a letter mailed one afternoon will reach its destination, within reasonable distance, the next morning. When this reasonable expectation is not fulfilled "to the letter," a good deal of business is likely to be thrown out of gear, with unfortunate results. This is only less true of second-class matter, i. e., regular periodicals, and measurably true of third-class matter, i. e., ordinary printed material, as circulars and the like. Messrs. Funk & Wagnalls have suggested a new usefulness for the American Publishers Association in asking its attention to, and suggesting action upon, delays in the New York Post Office, of which they instance a specific example. Of course, much is to be forgiven the over-burdened letter-carrier at Christmas time, but we fear that there is only too much reason for complaint of delays of delivery at less crowded periods, to the great inconvenience of both sender and receiver of mail matter. The New York Post Office, which is excellently officered and manned, is in fact without adequate facilities for doing its enormous work, and the officials are entitled to the credit of having made the best that could be made, for years past, of a plant quite unfitted for the extraordinary activity of which it is the centre. The suggestion of Messrs. Funk & Wagnalls that publishers should call the attention of the congressmen of their district to this evil is certainly worthy of adoption.

But although New York is now the chief publishing centre, and publishers are therefore much inconvenienced by congestion and delay here, there are larger inconveniences affecting publishing throughout the country, which are the result not of local difficulties but of a bureaucratic tendency in the department itself at Washington to impose increasing restrictions, particularly upon second-class matter, which are as unnecessary as they are burdensome. Regulations have been made which can be much more easily evaded with non-legitimate publications than observed by conscientious publishers, and many of them seem to be quite uncalled for under the narrowest construction of the postal law. A regulation of the Post Office Department that all second-class matter sent in envelopes shall bear the title of the publication printed on the envelope is scarcely justified by the law, but as it is of practical value in handling such matter, particularly in the railway post offices, there is little disposition to object to that regulation. But in the face of this requirement that certain printing shall be done on the envelope, is another ruling, reaching the height of absurdity, that periodicals enclosed in a patented envelope, such as is required for certain lines of publications, bearing therefore the "patent" mark as the patent laws of the United States require, are excluded from the mails as second-class matter and subjected to third-class rates. As the regulation is in conflict with requirements of United States law as to patent protection, it is difficult to see for it any reason whatever.

In the desire to exclude from second-class rates publications which are solely for advertising purposes the most extraordinary restrictions have been placed upon the legitimate advertising of legitimate publications. It is difficult, for instance, to see what ground there can be for the ruling that an illustration may be attached to reading matter pages and cannot be attached to advertising pages. Many publishers are now issuing books with colored illustrations, which illustrations they desire to show in their advertisements. These illustrations may be printed separately and pasted on pages contained in the reading matter portion of a periodical and may be printed in color directly on the advertising portion of the periodical, but they may not be printed separately and pasted upon the advertising pages. This is but one of many restrictions as to pagination, etc., etc., that have no logical foundation whatever, and do not seem to be even of convenience to the postal service, but only the result of an extreme bureaucratic system.

During the past year THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY began the issue of a supplement covering the cumulative index of books issued in the previous quarter or previous quarters. The restrictions upon the publication of this supplement in a form most convenient to the trade were manifold to a degree beyond scheduling here, and the practical result was that we were obliged to give this valuable feature to the trade in a much less convenient form than we had planned. The post office gained nothing, the periodical was put to inconvenience, and the subscribers lost a definite element of value. On the first issue of the cumulative index number the post office held the edition on purely technical grounds until nearly $100 excess postage was paid.

Another item which has greatly annoyed publishers is that where price or other record particulars have been marked on a book or other printed matter such matter has been charged actually at letter rates. This information is not in the nature of an individual communication and the technicality is so close that it would seem that common sense would find a way out of so technical a construction of the law. Of course, when such excess postage is charged the receiver cannot examine the matter addressed to him to decide whether he should claim it, and thus an innocent party can be heavily fined for acts of which he is not guilty and made to pay excessive sums for material which he does not want. Nor is there any means of redress for him.

These restrictive rules are applied of course by the local post office, and it is one of the abuses inevitably associated with them that there should be differences of ruling at different post offices; that is to say, a publisher in some small town in a remote region may be charged less for the same service than a publisher at the metropolitan centre. The New York Post Office naturally acts under a sharpened sense of responsibility to the Department than a smaller office because as the chief distributing centre it is more closely in touch with and more closely watched by the Department at Washington. There are many cases where local authorities having direct and adequate knowledge of a business problem would not make such restrictions, but they do not have, nor should they have, leeway to mitigate the conditions imposed by the Department. What is needed is less bureaucratic red-tape-ism at headquarters in Washington, and some means to control and counteract the officialism which inevitably seeks to interpret laws in the narrowest manner and to make restrictions as onerous as possible.

THE STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE.

THE annual meeting of The Stationers' Board of Trade was held on the 8th inst., President Henry C. Bainbridge in the chair and upwards of fifty firms being present in person or by proxy. The president opened the meeting with a felicitous speech, in the course of which he pointed out that "about eight months ago the trustees deemed it wise to increase the number of reports allowed each member from 150 to 200. The result, Mr. Bainbridge continued, "has been satisfactory. Members have appreciated the extra service, as a large number have used the information department to a greater extent than formerly, although but few have had more reports than the number limited without charge. The additional cost has been met by economy in other directions. If members would take advantage of this and use the information department to a greater extent, and many could use it to the exclusion of all other agencies, I feel confident they would be entirely satisfied.

"The assessments for dues amounted to $75 in 1900, as against $80 in 1899, and if our membership could be increased to 150 more, the present management could reduce the cost of membership still further. The trustees would welcome any suggestion as to the best way of accomplishing this much-to-be-desired result. In the past we have depended entirely upon correspondence and the personal solicitation of a few members. Our secretary has this subject always in mind, and most of our accessions are due to his efforts. Many houses in the trade require in the conduct of their business such services as this board can render, and our membership should be considerably increased.

"Several members who withdrew from the board, induced no doubt by the representations made to them by other organizations, have returned during the year, satisfied that the Stationers' Board of Trade had been giving them better service than they realized. I believe this is a fact, and that the reason is, that this is one of very few organizations of its character which is not conducted for profit, but which is managed with the strictest impartiality in the interest of each and every one of its members. A more general use of the facilities afforded to members will prove this fact.

"It has been suggested by some members to establish a system or department for the registry of labels, watermarks, trademarks, etc., in connection with the office. It was not approved of or adopted because of its impracticability. The purpose was to provide protection against copying at lower than United States Government rates. The board could not inflict penalties without power to enforce them. Such a department could not be maintained under our patent or copyright laws with any material satisfaction or results to members.

"I am glad the trustees have decided upon having an annual dinner in February. The dinner last year was an enjoyable affair and a great success. Its effect upon our association was beneficial. It is my earnest hope that you will give the dinner this year your hearty support and do what you can to make it a greater success. The object is to meet socially once a year your fellow members, and keep up interest in and insure the prosperity and usefulness of our institution."

REPORT OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

The report of the Executive Committee, presented by its chairman, James C. Aikin, gives the following summary of the work of the Information Department, the Collection Department, and the Bankruptcy Department, from January 1 to December 30, 1900:

Information Department.—The names in this department on our records up to December 31, 1900, number 67,602. At this time we have reports of the standing and credit of 50,544 dealers; of which 2469 are reports on new names added during the year, and the balance are revised reports of names previously reported on. From January 1 to December 31, 1900, we have furnished to members 14,063 reports, as against 13,387 during 1899.

INFORMATION (REPORTS) APPLIED FOR.

INFORMATION (REPORTS) RECEIVED.

	1899	1900
Reports from correspondents.....	4102	4504
Statements received.....	1563	1804

During 1900 we sent to members 5082 inquiries for information. In 1899, 4898 inquiries were sent out; 574 letters were written in this department, as against 415 in 1899; 7133 weekly circulars have been issued during the year in this department. This department was used by 130 members in 1899, and during the year 1900 by 125 members. A number of members have obtained 349 reports in excess of the number limited without extra charge.

Collection Department.—In the collection department there have been received for collection during the year 3272 claims, aggregating $130,776.72; 1525 claims have been closed by collection through the office, by attorney, or paid direct to members; 2332 claims were sent to attorneys during the year; 634 claims, amounting to $21,592.32, were settled direct; 572 were settled through attorneys, 319 were settled through the office; 663 claims returned uncollectible; 83 claims transferred to bankruptcy; 1001 are still open and in process of collection; 2271 claims have been disposed of. Amount collected during the year, $48,501.02.

There have been received 17,568 letters, and 31,109 have been written.

Bankruptcy Department.—During the year 226 new cases were opened in this department, which included 723 claims, amounting to $88,177.53; 36 cases (54 claims), amounting to $4405.87, have been settled in full; 41 cases (82 claims), amounting to $5121.54, have been settled direct; 186 cases (920 claims) have been settled by compromise; 314 cases (874 claims) have been returned as worthless; 11 cases (16 claims) have been withdrawn.

The large number of claims returned as worthless is the result of getting many old assignment cases of former years off our books, many firms and individuals, who assigned before the enactment of the bankruptcy law, having obtained a discharge from their indebtedness. There has been paid to creditors through this department $28,566.92, not including the $5121.54 paid direct. The number of letters received was 5474, and 8315 were written; besides, 5341 circulars were issued to creditors.

In addition to the correspondence in this department, 854 general letters were received and 931 written.

The books have been regularly audited, and bills have been passed and paid each month. The year is closed with a balance of $847.45 in the treasury, and interest due from the savings banks on the redemption fund, amounting to $220.

This year ends with but $15 dues for the year unpaid.

The following were elected trustees for the ensuing year: James C. Aikin (Aikin, Lambert & Co.), Chas. Watson Allen (Little, Brown & Co.), Chas. A. Appleton (D. Appleton & Co.), Henry C. Bainbridge (Charles T. Bainbridge's Sons), John V. Black (Snyder & Black), George C. Boorum (Boorum & Pease Company), Patrick Farrelly (American News Company), Charles S. Kiggins (Kiggins & Tooker Company), Thomas R. Bacon (J. B. Lippincott Company), I. M. Loughhead (Loughhead & Co.), Charles McLoughlin (McLoughlin Brothers), William M. Perkins (Raynor & Perkins Envelope Company), J. Walter Spalding (A. G. Spalding & Brothers), Frank Squier (Perkins, Goodwin & Co.), Nelson Taylor (the Baker & Taylor Company), Miles Vernon (S. E. & M. Vernon), Frank D. Waterman (L. E. Waterman Company), Franklin Weston (Byron Weston Company).

INADEQUATE POSTAL SERVICE IN NEW YORK.

THE FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY have sent to the American Publishers Association the following communication:

We presume that all the publishing houses of New York City have suffered and are suffering financial loss from the inadequate postal service rendered during the last few months, especially in the handling of outgoing mail. In illustration: On December 19th we sent to the General Post Office 1709 pieces of third class mail, among which were five pieces addressed to the members of the Executive Committee of our house, residing within the limits of Greater New York. None of the five pieces of mail were received until December 26th. When inquiry is made of the Postal Officials on this subject, they frankly admit that the facilities at their command are inadequate, and place the blame for this condition of affairs upon Congress. We take the liberty, therefore, to suggest that the American Publishers Association appoint a committee that shall investigate this matter, and if this plea of inadequate facilities appears to be well founded, shall have authority to urge upon Congress some adequate remedial action.

In addition, they suggest that every publishing house in New York send a letter at once to one or more of the members of Congress, urging that some steps for immediate relief be taken, and calling attention to the fact that it is not upon citizens of New York alone that the loss from this congestion in the post office falls, but upon citizens of the country at large, inasmuch as the chief delay is in outgoing mail matter.

BOOK-TRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

PITTSBURGH BOOKSELLERS' AND STATIONERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE first annual dinner of the Pittsburgh Booksellers' and Stationers' Association, which was held Tuesday evening, January 8, at the Monongahela House, was an unequalled success in every particular. Thirty-two members sat around the banquet table, representing every book and stationery house in Pittsburgh. President Charles H. Clough acted as toastmaster, and his witty introductions kept everybody in a good humor. George A. Olney, W. D. Bevin, Wm. H. Chambers, Frank E. Hart, Cramer Sexton, and M. E. Heise were present as guests of the Association, and treated the assemblage to some good speeches.

Mr. Olney spoke of the good old times of long ago, when he got $3 a ream for 6-lb. note, and $1.50 a quire for Demy Blank Books. He also very feelingly expressed his appreciation of his reception and of the kindness shown him.

Mr. Hart spoke in a humorous vein on "trusts" in general, and in particular of the Tatum & Co. trust.

Mr. Bevin spoke on the value of trade associations, and referred in high terms to the Pittsburgh Association. He also spoke of the value of having goods well displayed, and of the advantage of giving customers quick service.

Mr. Chambers made a humorous speech, touching up the Pittsburgh stores, and emphasizing the necessity of making a good show, and of going after business.

Mr. Heise spoke of the old times in Philadelphia when he was a boy, and paid a touching tribute to Joseph Eichbaum, which was appreciated by all present.

Mr. Sexton spoke on competition, and illustrated his point by a funny story.

Mr. Clough then called on R. S. Davis, the oldest representative of the local trade present. Mr. Davis gave an interesting talk on Pittsburgh book stores of forty-five years ago. Speeches then followed from nearly every one present. W. W. Waters gave a good talk on old-time bookstores, and spoke in high praise of John S. Davison, a Pittsburgh bookseller of 1855.

The following is a list of those who were present: George A. Olney, of the Kimpton Co.; W. D. Bevin, of Boorum & Pease; Wm. H. Chambers, of the Spencerian Pen Company; Frank E. Hart, of Tatum & Co.; M. E. Heise, of Langfeld Bros. & Co.; Cramer Sexton, of John G. Shaw Co.; Chas. H. Clough and W. D. Cooper, of W. G. Johnston & Co.; H. Lee Mason, George S. Denison, and Elmer E. McKown, of J. R. Weldon & Co.; R. S. Davis, H. F. Davis, and Jos. L. Kelly, of R. S. Davis & Co.; W. H. Griffin, Mr. Dunning and H. C. Smalley, of Eichbaum Co.; George S. Kurtz, of Kurtz, Langbein & Swartz; George H. Alexander, Christian Kirch and Chas. R. Snider, of Alexander, Baker & Co.; W. W. Waters and R. J. Gibson, of the Presbyterian Board; W. G. Gibson and M. H. C. Hill, of U. P. Board of Publication; Chas. Hergert, of the German Book and Stationery Company; F. G. Stieren and George S. Kopp, of W. E. Stieren Co.; Chas. H. Shinkle, U. G. Myers and W. D. Sellers, of Myers, Shinkle & Co.

The banquet closed with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE.

At a meeting of the trustees of the Stationers' Board of Trade, held on the 15th inst. the following officers were re-elected: President, Henry C. Bainbridge; First Vice-President, James C. Aikin; Second Vice-President, Charles McLoughlin; and Secretary and Treasurer, Edwin H. Loveless.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

HALL CAINE's new story, "The Eternal City" will make its first appearance in this country as a serial in Collier's Weekly, beginning early in February.

J. A. STEUART, who for ten years has been editor of the London Publishers' Circular, resigned his position at the close of last year, in order to be able to devote himself entirely to literature. Mr. Steuart's latest novel, "The Eternal Quest," will be published next month by Hutchinson & Co. His best known recent books are "A Minister of State" and "Wine on the Lees."

MAYO W. HAZELTINE, fifty-nine years old, a lawyer and reviewer of books, was seriously injured on January 8, by being run down by a cab at Thirty-fifth Street and Broadway. He was crossing the street, and apparently did not see the cab until it was impossible for him to escape. Mr. Hazeltine was knocked down by the horse, and one wheel of the cab passed over his right hip, fracturing it.

OBITUARY.

CHARLES AUGUSTUS CLAPP.

CHARLES AUGUSTUS CLAPP for many years identified with one of the best-known publishing houses in this country died suddenly at the Plaza Hotel, New York, on the 11th inst. Mr. Clapp had been ailing for some years; nevertheless he kept in touch with the store with more or less regularity and the end came unexpectedly.

Mr. Clapp was born November 9, 1835, in Dorchester, (now a part of the city of Boston,) where his father, Ebenezer Clapp, kept a bookstore. He received a common school education and at the age of fourteen began business in his father's store. Two years later he became salesman for Crosby & Nichols. In 1859, when Crosby & Nichols failed, young Clapp obtained a position at Ticknor & Fields's "Old Corner Bookstore." In 1864, when Ticknor & Fields went out of the retail business E. P. Dutton & Co. bought the lease and good will of the "Old Corner Bookstore," and took Mr. Clapp into partnership, the firm-name remaining unchanged. The firm of E. P. Dutton & Co. was the successor of Ide & Dutton formed in 1852 by E. P. Dutton and Lemuel N. Ide, whose father had an important printing establishment in his day at Claremont, N. H., and published, in 1847, Blake's "American Booksellers' Complete Reference Trade List," the first attempt to present the lists of all the publishers in uniform shape. Lemuel N. Ide, who by the way is still connected with the "Old Corner Bookstore," had just purchased the school-book and map publishing business of William B. Towle, and with this slender stock-in-trade the new firm opened up at 140 Washington Street, one flight up. The ground floor was occupied by Charles Simpson, who long had had the only Episcopal bookstore in the vicinity. Shortly after Ide & Dutton began business they bought out Mr. Simpson. As yet they did but little publishing. In 1858, desiring to enlarge the business Mr. Dutton bought out Mr. Ide and adopted the firm-name of E. P. Dutton & Co. which has remained unchanged till the present time. Six years later, as above noted, Mr. Clapp became junior partner. The union proved a fortunate one in every respect and success attended every move of the new firm. Their retail trade, always the care of Mr. Clapp, increased rapidly, while the publishing branch under Mr. Dutton's able administration also grew apace. They bought some of the stock and plates of the estate of the firm of Stanford & Swords, the old Episcopal publishing house of New York, and later a portion of the list of Daniel Dana, another New York publisher of Episcopal literature.

In 1868 they purchased the entire business and stock of the General Protestant Episcopal Sunday-School Union and Church Book Society at 762 Broadway, New York, and established there a branch of their Boston house. New York at that time was the natural centre of the American Episcopal church, and its publishing business could be done here most successfully. E. P. Dutton & Co. contracted with the Church Book Society to manufacture all its books and pay a copyright on all copies sold. This arrangement was mutually satisfactory, relieving the Society of all trouble and cost and assuring the firm a certain income. In 1869 the lease of the New York store ran out and proved impossible of renewal upon favorable terms. At this juncture, James R. Osgood & Co. who also had a New York store offered to transfer their New York business to E. P. Dutton & Co. if they would take some prominent store on Broadway and remove their whole business to New York. This plan was adopted and E. P. Dutton & Co. established themselves at 713 Broadway at the corner of Washington Place. When the tide of business moved uptown the firm of E. P. Dutton & Co. was among the first to realize the importance of gaining a favorable position. When they removed to Twenty-third Street their large store was easily the handsomest in the country.

Mr. Clapp was a man of fine physique and affable manners, easily approached by all with whom he had business relations. He was a member of the New England Society, the Colonial Club, the Union League, the Uptown Association, and, as a lover of good horseflesh, of the Driving Club. He leaves a widow and one daughter, the wife of Joseph A. Smith, who has been for some years associated with E. P. Dutton & Co. The interment took place at Mt. Auburn Cemetery, Cambridge.

EMERY CLEAVES.

EMERY CLEAVES, a well-known and valued member of the staff of Lee & Shepard, Boston, died December 30, 1900, after a lingering illness. Mr. Cleaves was born in Saco, Me., January 30, 1843, the son of David B. and Mary G. (Emery) Cleaves. He came of good New England stock, his family on his father's side having been among the first settlers of Beverly, Mass., afterwards moving to Kennebunkport and then to Saco, Me., while his descent on his mother's side was from Anthony Emery, who settled in Newbury, Mass., in 1635. He was educated and prepared for college in the grammar and high schools of Saco, but soon after leaving school went to Boston and began his long connection with the book-trade by securing employment with Abram Cutter, bookseller and stationer in Charlestown. Always devotedly patriotic, he gave up his long-cherished plans of a college course to enlist in Co. E. 47th Regiment, Mass. Vols., serving until invalided and sent home in the fall of 1863. He retained his interest in his military comrades until the last, and had been for a long time secretary of his regimental association, a tribute to his popularity and worth as a man and soldier. In November, 1865, he resumed his connection with the book business by entering the employ of Lee & Shepard, first in their old store on Washington Street, and afterward in their large establishment on Franklin Street, remaining with them until they gave up their retail business, when he joined the forces of Lockwood, Brooks & Co., on Franklin Street. He next started the firm of Cleaves, Macdonald & Co., on Temple Place and Tremont Street. This partnership was dissolved in 1888, Mr. Macdonald confining himself to his bookbinding business, and Mr. Cleaves opening a book department for Almy, Bigelow & Washburn, at Salem, Mass. Later, for a year, he was buyer for the book department of William Donaldson & Co., of Minneapolis, after which he returned to Boston and resumed connection with his former employers, Lee & Shepard—a loyal connection to be terminated only by death. His last year was marked by increasing physical weakness, but he stayed at his desk resolutely until the month of October, heroically struggling against a disease which rendered it more and more impossible to gain bodily nourishment. Few men were more widely known in publishing and trade circles, and none in a more kindly way. His natural ability was of a very high order, and his self-gained education excellent. His clear mind, wide reading, and varied experience had given him so broad a range that he could readily turn from verifying a classical quotation to the details of "manufacturing," with accuracy in each case. All with whom he had to do, whether author, artist, representative of the press, manufacturer, dealer, or fellow-worker, found unvarying courtesy, and a disposition that could remain sunny under all circumstances. A widow and four sons survive him.

RICHARD BRINKERHOFF.

RICHARD BRINKERHOFF, one of the oldest—if not the oldest—booksellers in New York City, died January 10, after a brief illness. He was born in New York, April 19, 1828, and when about thirteen years old went to work in a hardware shop. In 1850 his brother J. H. F. Brinkerhoff, a dealer in old books, induced Richard to join him in the business, and the firm of J. H. F. Brinkerhoff & Co. was formed with headquarters at 113 Fulton Street—then as now the headquarters of the Collegiate Church and of the Fulton Street Prayer Meeting. The young firm kept new as well as old books, making a specialty of religious and theological works. They also acted, from the start, as the depository of the Sunday-School Union of the Reformed (Dutch) Church. The senior member of the firm, J. H. F. Brinkerhoff, retired a few years after his brother Richard joined him, and the firm name then became R. & R. Brinkerhoff and finally Richard Brinkerhoff, the shop being removed first to 112 William Street and then to 48 Fulton Street. In 1865 Mr. Brinkerhoff joined the firm of Tibbals & Whitney—later N. Tibbals & Co.—then at 37 Park Row. In 1875 Mr. Brinkerhoff was appointed business manager of the Board of Publication of the Reformed Church in America, whose depository was located at 34 Vesey Street. In 1887 the Board removed to 26 Reade Street and in 1892 to its present home at 25 East Twenty-second Street. In 1899 Mr. Brinkerhoff was appointed Honorary Business Manager, (Mr. Louis E. Turk assuming the post of active Business Agent,) to enable him to devote more time to his personal book business. Mr. Brinkerhoff, though he came of old Dutch stock, was of Yankee build—tall and wiry, and exceedingly nervous. His memory was phenomenal, and active almost up to the hour of his death. He was recognized as an authority on religious literature, and on subjects relating to the history of New York City. He was ever ready to give information on these subjects and his decisions were rarely at fault.

OBITUARY NOTES.

MARTIN YOUNG, a publisher of popular books, died at his home, 363 Henry Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., January 15. He was born in Albany, N. Y., in 1830, and learned the trade of printing in the office of Thurlow Weed. He came to New York in 1863 and engaged in the publishing business at 173 Greenwich Street, and then at 22 Waverly Place. He afterward moved to Brooklyn, where he continued the business up to the time of his death.

JOHANN FABER, founder of the famous lead pencil factory, died on the 15th inst. at Nuremberg. Faber was born in 1817, at Stein, near Nuremberg, and for many years was employed in the pencil factory of A. W. Faber. Twelve years ago he severed his connection with A. W. Faber, and in company with his sons organized the Faber Manufacturing Company.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The partnership hitherto existing between Walter M. Hill and Rutherford B. Hayes, the firm being known as Walter M. Hill & Co., has been dissolved. Mr. Hill has bought out the interest of Mr. Hayes in the business and will continue it as before. Mr. Hayes continues to be sole proprietor of The Bookseller and of the "Circulating Library of Chicago."

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Publishers' and Book-buyers' Association, capital $2500, will be incorporated by J. F. Lawrence, Thos. J. Evans, Jr., and H. T. Saunders.

NEW WHATCOM, WASH.—J. B. Scott and W. H. Saunders have bought Morris Jones's book and stationery business.

NEW YORK CITY.—The following item appears in the New York Times for January 16: "Morris S. Wise, referee in bankruptcy, has reported that F. Tennyson Neely, publisher, formerly at 114 Fifth Avenue, who filed a petition in bankruptcy on Oct. 21, 1899, with liabilities of $359,351, is entitled to a discharge in bankruptcy, the specifications of the opposing creditor not having been sustained. Out of 450 creditors, only one firm filed specifications of objection, that Mr. Neely had knowingly concealed from his trustee forty-nine bicycles valued at $1000, located in Chicago, which bicycles were omitted from the original schedules, but on June 27, 1900, the schedules were amended by adding a mention of these bicycles. The bankrupt swore that the omission was inadvertent and unintentional, and that they had been transferred to a firm of Chicago attorneys before the bankruptcy as security for a debt he owed them. The referee does not think that the creditor established the essential and necessary fact that the omission of these bicycles from his schedule was done either knowingly or intentionally."

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y.—Frank P. Freel has bought Cornell & McFaul's book, stationery and news business.

PIQUA, O.—Chas. S. Zimmer has succeeded Cranston & Zimmer, booksellers and stationers.

SAGINAW, MICH.—James C. Mills and Herbert Arnold have bought W. F. Twelvetees's book and stationery store.

SPRINGFIELD, O.—E. E. Remsberg, bookseller, has sold his store to Beal & Mumper, who will continue the business, probably enlarging the stock and improving the store.

PICK-UPS.

THE owner of a small bookstore in Harlem, desirous of a distinctive name for the same, after hours of deep cogitation finally hit upon the legend, "Harlem's Literary Mecca." This he thought exceedingly good, and he had a man put it up in enamel letters upon his window. After the job was done he was standing out by the curb-stone admiring the effect of the inscription, when he heard an old Irishman, who had stopped and was also looking at it, soliloquize as follows: "Well, now, will you luk at that! The cheek of that Scotchman, callin' himself 'Haar-r-lem's Literary Mickey,' just to catch some of the Irish trade! An' the blackguard don't even know how to spell 'Mickey!'" The inscription has been removed.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

DODD, MEAD & Co. have recently brought out, by arrangement with Henry Stevens, Son & Stiles of London an exceedingly interesting and useful bibliography of the Cabots and their voyages, prepared by George Parker Winship, of Providence, R. I.* The author introduces his bibliography with an essay on the careers of John and Sebastian Cabot. Stripped of all the romance which has gradually become associated with the Cabots and their voyages it is surprising how Mr. Winship's conclusions vary from the accepted versions of many historians, both old and modern. Many new facts are brought to light, but for every fact Mr. Winship quotes his authority so that the reader may be enabled by reference to the bibliographic material to follow the author's deductions step by step. The second part of the book contains a carefully prepared bibliography of practically everything known about the subject in the shape of manuscripts, books and maps. Each article is amply described, and the full title, collation, and location given wherever possible. Under each item are noted all important reprints and translations, and cross references are given to other authors who have used the same material. The variations are pointed out and the different authors' opinions and deductions are stated, compared, and weighed. Wherever practicable the original source of information is indicated. Many of the notes extend to several pages in small type. A very lengthy and exhaustive account is given of the celebrated Cabot map in the Bibliothèque Nationale at Paris. Nearly six hundred main titles are given, besides references to numerous other works referred to in the notes. The work is handsomely gotten up, having been printed at the famous Chiswick Press.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

MR. STEPHEN PHILLIPS's drama, "Herod," is to be translated into German. Applications have also been made for rights of translation into French, Russian, and Italian.

LENGNICK BOOK AND STATIONERY Co., Charleston, S. C., have bought and now publish the Reynolds' Primers and Readers, also the Copy-Books, formerly published by Walker, Evans & Cogswell Co. of Charleston.

ALBERT E. TURNER will hereafter represent M. J. Ivers & Co., of New York, publishers of the American Series of popular books bound in paper covers. Mr. Turner will make his headquarters at the offices of Cassell & Company, Limited, 7 and 9 West Eighth Street, New York.

THE REV. FRANK C. HADDOCK of the New England Conference has written a volume on the training of the will, which he is publishing at his home, 319 Boston Street, Lynn, Mass. It is entitled "The King on His

*WINSHIP, G: Parker. Cabot bibliography, with an introductory essay on the careers of the Cabots based upon an independent examination of the sources of information. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1900. 52+180 p. O. cl., net, $5.25.

Throne, or, Power of Will to Direct Mental Culture." It is neither a study of the occult nor of the metaphysical, but is a plain, practical, and scientific treatment of the will.

D. C. HEATH & Co. will publish shortly "The French Subjunctive," by C. C. Clarke, Jr., Instructor in Yale University, a brief historical treatise, with practical exercises, adapted to be used in advanced classes in schools, or in colleges where a short grammar is used; also, in Heath's Modern Language Series, Wildenbruch's "Harold," edited with introduction and notes, by Professor C. A. Eggert.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY publish this week "The Biography of George H. C. MacGregor," the remarkable English preacher, by his cousin, Duncan Campbell MacGregor. George MacGregor's association with F. B. Meyer and G. Campbell Morgan, his work at Northfield and his deeply-impressive writings, have made his name well known in Christian homes, both in America and in England. Although but a young man at the time of his death, he was enabled by his tireless energy to accomplish much. They have also just ready a "Life of Irene Petrie," the brilliant young woman missionary to Kashmir, by her sister, Mrs. Ashley Carus-Wilson.

THE NEW AMSTERDAM BOOK COMPANY announce "Milly, a romance of the Southland," by Maurice Thompson, author of "Alice of Old Vincennes," which is said to rival the latter in interest. They will publish at once "The Viceroy's Protégé," by Guy Boothby; the fifth edition of Grant Allen's "Linnet"; Arthur Morrison's "The Dorrington Deed Box;" and Richard March's "The Crime and Criminal," the latter two being additions to the Red Letter Series. Two other books of interest will be "Here Lies," a collection of inscriptions from tombstones, edited by W. H. Howe; also, "The Rising of 1745," with a bibliography of Jacobite history, (1689-1788,) by C. S. Terry of Aberdeen, Scotland, forming the new volume in the Series of Scottish History from Contemporary Writers.

AUCTION SALES.

[Under this heading advance notices will be inserted without charge, of book auction sales to be held anywhere in the United States. Word should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.]

JOHN ANDERSON, JR., will offer for sale on January 28 and 29, at 3 P.M. and 7:30 P.M., the second part of the library of Thomas Jefferson McKee. This portion comprises Mr. McKee's books on the drama in its histories, biographies, and controversies, including early English works, 1579-1708, manuscript stage records, English, Irish, Scotch and American dramatic histories, extra illustrated works, theatrical magazines, rare biographies, etc. The selection of this section of the library has been confined strictly to the drama, of which Mr. McKee was an enthusiastic student, and on which his knowledge was all-embracing and exhaustive particularly so far as its early history in England and America was concerned. (1283-2186 lots.) Mr. McKee's choice and extensive collection of early English plays, including collected editions of the early dramatists, and Shakespeare folios, will be offered for sale early in March.

BANGS & Co. will sell at auction on the afternoons of January 30 and 31, the remarkably fine collection of first editions of Bryant, Emerson, Hawthorne, Holmes, Longfellow, Lowell, Thoreau and Whittier collected by William Harris Arnold. This is, by far, the fullest collection of first editions of the eight authors named, that has ever been offered for sale. Nearly all the books are in good condition—much better than usual—copy after copy having been disposed of, from time to time, as better ones have been obtained. With few exceptions they are in their original covers. Autograph letters of the authors have been inserted in many of the volumes, and most of them relate to the books they now accompany. (709 lots.) The catalogue has been printed by the Marion Press, Jamaica, and is a fine specimen of bookmaking. Another collection made by Mr. Arnold, comprising more than 300 books, nearly all first editions, and about 70 autograph letters, will be sold next April. The collection includes English poetry printed in the seventeenth century, several rare volumes of the eighteenth century, first editions of the Brownings, including "Pauline" and "The Battle of Marathon," first editions of Keats, a set of the Kelmscott Press books and others equally important. The letters are by the Brownings, Cowper, Shelley, Wordsworth, and the remainder chiefly by American authors. The catalogue will be ready in March.

THE autograph genealogy of George Washington, at the auction sale of the Clark collection of prints and autographs, at C. F. Libbie & Co.'s, Boston, on the 15th inst., brought $1750. The book went to Dodd, Mead & Co., who, it is understood, purchased it for the account of George W. Vanderbilt. Another of the autographs sold was an original manuscript record of the formation of the Concord Company of minute men, who met on Jan. 17, 1775, and chose their officers, with a list of fifty-two members. With this is a record of the meetings of the company, with an additional slip, one of the entries being: "Concord, April 19, 1775, then we were cold a Way to Cambridg, then the battel be gune." This brought out some lively bidding, and the work was finally sold, upon order, at $275. An autograph of the Rev. John Eliot, the Indian Apostle, sold for $61. An account of Lovewell's fight at Pequaket, in 1725, written by Elaser Melvin, a participant in the fight, brought $31, and an old book which was worth possibly a few cents of itself, but which had "Nathan Hale's book, 1768," written on the flyleaf, was sold, after some lively bidding, for $150 to C. E. Goodspeed, the Boston dealer in old books. A page letter written by Benjamin Franklin brought $40, and a military order issued by Col. Benjamin Church was sold for $70. A broadside issued by the Provincial Congress at Watertown, in 1775, was sold for $65.

JANUARY 21, 3 P.M.—Standard, scarce and curious books. (326 lots.)—Bangs.

JANUARY 22-25, 3 P.M.—Standard and scarce books. (1030 lots.)—Bangs.
